

We have recently launched a new stainless steel convection cooking braai product into the South African market which we are calling the Ultimate Convection Grill.

Essentially the unit is a portable braai small enough to, when folded down and placed into its carry bag, easily into the boot of a car.

Manufactured entirely in food grade 304 stainless steel and offering top quality fully welded finishes, heavy duty split grids and dual fire trays to allow direct or indirect cooking options and the option to include a rotisserie large enough for a dual bird rotisserie.

The unit folds down and all the components fit inside the lid of the unit for a more compact portable transport option.

There is a temperature gauge and heat vent fitted in the lid to allow monitoring of cooking temperatures to achieve perfect results every time you chose to braai, bake or rotisserie grill.
